

ADP to Release Quarterly Workforce Vitality Report With Deeper Labor Market Insights on WEDNESDAY, April 25, 2018

ROSELAND, N.J., April 18, 2018 /PRNewswire/ --

WHAT: ADP® will release its quarterly Workforce Vitality Report (WVR) with deeper labor market insights on Wednesday, April 25, 2018.

Established in October 2014, the WVR offers an in-depth analysis of the vitality of the U.S. labor market based on data that identifies labor market trends and dynamics across multiple dimensions, including employment growth, wage growth and hours worked. Importantly, the WVR also distinguishes between job holders, job switchers and new entrants, which is key to understanding the health of the labor market. In addition to the macro data presented in the report, there are also segment-specific findings by industry, state, gender, age, experience and pay level.

The updated WVR from the ADP Research Institute® will include all of the same segment-specific data, but also include updates to provide improved, more granular insights.

Enhancements to the report will include the use of monthly data, rather than quarterly numbers, to sharpen labor market picture, the addition of information around new entrants to the workforce and deeper insights into seasonality and employment by firm size.

Detailed information about changes to the methodology and an updated calendar of release dates will be available at <http://workforcereport.adp.com/> on Wednesday, April 25.

WVR data dating back to 2014, with the new methodology, will be available.

WHEN: Wednesday, April 25, 2018
