"We're honored to receive such notable recognition of our efforts to help people achieve greater success at work, a focus that's always been core to ADP," said Maria Black, president and chief executive officer of ADP. "As people and technology continue to grow together and transform the workforce, we're more focused than ever on keeping people at the center. That means finding new ways to amplify human creativity and connection by applying AI to empower their contributions and solve true pain points. By building an easier, smarter and more human world of work, we can help move people closer to the work they love to do and the greatest impact they can make."

FORTUNE collaborates with partner Korn Ferry on this corporate reputation survey, which evaluates approximately 1,500 companies, including the 1,000 largest U.S. companies ranked by revenue and non-U.S. companies in the FORTUNE Global 500™ database with revenues of $10 billion or more. Korn Ferry surveyed 685 companies from 29 countries to select the largest for each industry. To determine the best-regarded companies, Korn Ferry asks executives, directors, and analysts to rate enterprises in their own industry on criteria from investment value and quality of management and products to social responsibility and ability to attract talent. A company's score must rank in the top half of its industry survey to be listed.
